Chancellor's Update

Communism: An Anti-Christian Conspiracy

During the past few years (see Updates September & October 2014) we have shown the activities of our enemies and now from Lines of Credit: Ropes of Bondage by Robert Henry Goldsborough we reproduce his Chapter One as another source.

"In 1920, as Lenin and his band of Bolsheviks were brutally solidifying their stranglehold on the Russian peasants, Winston Churchill wrote, "From the days of Spartacus-Weishaupt to those of Karl Marx, down to Trotsky (Russia), Bela Kun (Hungary), Rosa Luxemburg (Germany) and Emma Goldman (USA), this world-wide conspiracy for the overthrow of civilization and for the reconstruction of society on the basis of arrested development, of envious malevolence, and impossible equality, has been steadily growing. It played ... a definitely recognizable part in the tragedy of the French Revolution. It has been the mainspring of every subversive movement, during the Nineteenth Century; and now, at last, this band of extraordinary personalities from the underworld of the great cities of Europe and America have gripped the Russian people by the hair of their heads and have become practically the undisputed masters of that enormous empire." (ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY HERALD, February 8, 1920.)

"Many students of atheistic communism are under the impression that Marx started the movement about the time he wrote the Communist Manifesto in 1848, when actually, the fires of communist revolution had already been smoldering in Europe for at least seventy-five years. Significantly Churchill charged that this subversive conspiracy "played a definitely recognizable part in the tragedy of the French Revolution."

"However, Churchill gives first place among communist revolutionaries not to Marx, but to "Spartacus-Weishaupt."

"Weishaupt, born in Germany in 1748, received his early training from the Jesuits and although inspired by their organizational ability, nevertheless developed an intense hatred for their religious order. "He turned with eagerness to the subversive teaching of the French philosophers [Rousseau and Voltaire] and the anti-Christian doctrines of the Manicheans," wrote British historian Nesta Webster (WORLD REVOLUTION).

Weishaupt was greatly influenced by Voltaire who was described by J. Cretineau-Joly as the most perfect incarnation of Satan that the world has ever seen."

"In Ingoldstadt, on May 1, 1776, Adam Wieshaupt adopted the alias "Spartacus" when he organized the Bavarian Illuminati, a secret revolutionary society which later was headquartered in Munich.

"Weishaupt, like Rousseau, held that civilization was a mistake. And like Voltaire, he believed that man should return to raw nature. Love of God, love of country and love of family must give way to an intense hatred of Christ and a vague concept of love for a universal happy family - always, of course, under the watchful eyes and forceful direction of the elitist Illuminati. Weishaupt predicted that mankind, in this natural state unhindered by Christianity, patriotism and love of one's family, would reach "its highest perfection" and ultimately develop "the capacity for governing itself."

"Publicly, Marx made similar predictions that after a perfect state of atheistic communism was reached, government would wither away. However, in private, Weishaupt and his ideological descendants Marx and Lenin expressed the belief that the average man was too stupid to govern himself and that a self-appointed inner-circle or Illuminati would secretly rule.

"Until Bavarian police discovered Illuminist documents on the person of a dead courier, Weishaupt had operated secretly so as not to alert the authorities. His inner-circle adepts infiltrated and manipulated other European secret societies in order to avoid discovery, build power, influence minds and convert sympathizers. They took aliases like "Spartacus"; they used misleading language or doubletalk; they denied the existence of the Illuminati when questioned by governments; they lied when it served their purposes; and like modern-day communists, they used any means, no matter how brutal, immoral, or illegal, to achieve their ends - the absolute destruction of Christian civilization, and the creation of a BRAVE NEW WORLD in an atheistic new age where, in the name of humanism, illumined man would perfect and worship himself.

"The late Whittaker Chambers after his long agonizing search for truth, finally realized that man's ultimate happiness could be found only in Christianity, not in communism. He wrote that the humanistic-communist Conspiracy "is not new. It is, in fact, man's second oldest faith. Its promise was whispered in the first days of the Creation under the Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil: 'Ye shall be as Gods.'""

In our Update of April 2014 we presented information that Russia under the leadership of Vladimir Putin was interested in the Fatima Prophecy. Fr. Gruner at the request of the Vatican went to Rome to meet and explain the Fatima message. The Fatima Center has recently released that Our Lady's Apostolate is going to Russia. "From November 3 through November 5, we are holding our first ever conference in Moscow!" "We are putting the case for the consecration before the Russian people."

In our May 2016 Update we demonstrated how God works. In the succeeding months there have been many religious activities in Russia, showing there is an active movement occurring. For example the latest "Russian cosmonaut, Sergei Ryzhikov told Russian news agencies that he would give the tiny relic of revered 19th century hermit St. Serafim of Sarov, which he received from its home monastery last year, to an Orthodox church in Star City outside Moscow, home to the cosmonaut training center." "At the present time, more than 1,760 New Martyrs and Confessors have been officially "glorified" by the Russian Orthodox Church. The Church has established an annual feast of the New Martyrs and Confessors of Russia on the Sunday nearest February 7. On May 25, 2017, a magnificent church dedicated to the New Martyrs and Confessors of the Russian Church was consecrated in Moscow by Patriarch Kirill."(Inside the Vatican, 5 & 10, 2017)

God works in strange and wondrous ways!
